The Leibniz Institute for East and Southeast European Studies (IOS) is a regional studies center at the University of Regensburg focusing on emerging east European economies in a global perspective.

Situated south of Munich on Lake Starnberg, the Akademie für Politische Bildung (APB, Academy for Civic Education) has a reputation for organizing conferences and workshops in various fields of the social sciences.

To foster the exchange of ideas and networking among scholars, the IOS and the APB launched a series of annual Summer Academies. The IOS/APB/EACES Summer Academies on Central and Eastern Europe aim to bring together researchers in a workshop atmosphere. Each participant presents a research project and comments on another one, to be followed by a general discussion. In addition, three keynote lectures are presented. This format should be especially interesting for PhD students and postdocs. More senior researchers, however, are also welcome to participate. The workshop language is English.

The topic of the 2019 IOS/APB/EACES Summer Academy is “Socioeconomic Consequences of Climate Change, Disasters, and Extreme Events: Individual Outcomes, Regional Development, and Mitigation Policies”. Topics include impacts of climate change, disasters, and extreme events, human capital, health, educational achievements, labor outcomes, gender inequality, household and firm behavior, economic growth, agricultural and energy sectors.
